

Mrs. Nancy Schodroski

Seventh Grade

10 years with St. Peter School

36 years teaching experience

What I like most about teaching at St. Peter is the journey the children and I get to go on as we learn about God and His world. The children are so receptive to the learning and bless me constantly with their ideas and knowledge. Our weekly masses inspire me. And our curriculum is strong with students coming into the Jr. High grades well prepared and excited to learn.

I have seen many changes in education during my career. My style of teaching and philosophy of teaching have evolved through these changes. I believe my primary job, as an educator, is to help the student develop into the finest person possible. The first and foremost goal of mine is to find ways to lead the student into a strong relationship with God. My second goal is to help develop a lifelong love of learning in my students. As a guide and leader, I hope to challenge my students on a daily basis.

Some of the unique learning opportunities offered to my students are we use a Wiki page that the students are able to use both at school and home.

It allows constant communication. The social studies classes also do an individual project with each chapter.

These projects are linked to the material covered in the classroom and allow for the student's enrichment in an area that the student chooses. The U.S. history curriculum is enriched by the 8th grade trip to Washington, D.C.

My teaching style:

I believe my primary job, as an educator, is to help the student develop into the finest person possible.

Get to know me...

I attended three of my four college years at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale and graduated with a B.S. degree in Elementary Education from Quincy University.

Prior to teaching at St. Peter School and St. Mary School I taught for 14 years in the Quincy Public Schools.

My husband, Bill, and I have raised three children here and are enjoying being grandparents.

I am a Quincy native and we are parishioners of Blessed Sacrament Church. Our children attended St. Mary Grade School.

My favorite food is Italian, and I enjoy reading, decorating my house, playing golf and watching baseball or softball. Two of my favorite teams are the Cardinals and of course – any QND sport! Go Cardinals and QND!!!!